Wellness Tips: Healthy Reasons to Laugh

Highlights

Boredom Can Be Good for Your Brain

Nearly a century ago, philosopher Bertrand Russell wrote that a certain amount of boredom is “essential to a happy life.” Researchers are now echoing his advice. They say moments of idle time allow the brain to rest, leaving you refreshed and rejuvenated. When the mind is able to wander and daydream, it can spark creativity, and help you to identify new interests and plan future goals.

Fitness Tip: Stand Up

A standing workout will almost always burn more calories than a seated one, with the exception of a high-intensity cycling class. Get on your feet for some more vigorous activity to see real results.

Kidding around has some serious benefits and not just for your funny bone! Here's how laughter can improve your life:

Provides a workout. A bout of boisterous laughter is like a mild workout. Your heart starts beating faster, sending oxygen throughout your body and stimulating muscles. Giggling for 10 to 15 minutes can burn as much as 50 calories.

Boosts your immune system. Laughs produce positive thoughts, which prompt your body to release antibodies that help fight illness.

Lifts your spirits. Laughing boosts the brain's level of dopamine and serotonin, chemicals that can improve mood and may help lessen depression. Often, people who embrace laughter find it easier to cope with difficult situations and let go of stress and anger.

Keeps you connected. Laughter is contagious. One researcher estimates we are 30 times more likely to laugh with others than when we're alone. Spending time with people can help you laugh more and improve your quality of life. Laughing together is also a common way to bond with loved ones as well as make new friends.

Relieves pain temporarily. When you laugh, your body releases endorphins, the “feel-good” brain chemicals that act as natural pain relievers. Research shows that your muscles stay relaxed for up to 45 minutes after good chuckles health ease tension and stress.
